

Additional Information

Raystede has recently completed a strategic review, which highlighted the crucial need to invest in our Prevention and Education work. Our Board of Trustees has agreed to this investment, enabling us to achieve ambitious goals that will significantly improve animal welfare.

These positions are at the forefront of delivering all preventative and educational activities:

- The Education and Events Manager will focus on maximising educational opportunities and events on our beautiful site.
- The Community Education and Outreach Manager will drive our outreach efforts, taking our message directly into communities across Sussex.
- The diagram below illustrates how these roles will fit into the existing Prevention and Education Team departmental structure.

You'll be instrumental in shaping and driving our activity programme forward, directly contributing to Raystede's ultimate long-term vision: ensuring animals across Sussex live good lives, and people are fully supported to make that happen.

We're looking for individuals with in-depth experience in delivering activities against strategic goals. We want driven people who are organised, adept at planning and executing novel programmes, and courageous enough to lead new initiatives. If you're ready to make a significant impact and help us drive positive change for animals and people in Sussex, we want to hear from you!
